

The PDRN Sandwich & Stack Planner

Exactly what goes on your face, in what order, at what time – with the do-not-mix rules

The core move: the PDRN Sandwich

Five layers. Order matters. Water first, oil last. PDRN in the middle, never alone.

AM, MORNING	NIGHT (PDRN night)
1. Rinse / cleanse	1. Gentle cleanse
2. Hydrating toner	2. Hydrating toner/essence
3. Moisturizer	3. PDRN SERUM (2-3 drops)
4. SPF 30+	4. Barrier moisturizer
	5. Occlusive (optional)

Application rules:

- Apply to slightly damp skin (except SPF, which goes on dry skin)
- Pat and press, don't rub – friction is irritation
- Wait ~30-60 seconds between layers so each one settles
- 2-3 drops of PDRN is enough for the whole face. More is not better.

The weekly planner

	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat	Sun
AM	Cleanse + Tone + Moist + SPF	same	same	same	same	same	same
PM (Phase 3, week 1-2)	PDRN night	Barrier only	Barrier only	PDRN night	Barrier only	Barrier only	Barrier only
PM (week 3)	PDRN	Barrier	PDRN	Barrier	PDRN	Barrier	Barrier
PM (week 4+)	PDRN	PDRN	PDRN	Barrier	PDRN	PDRN	Barrier

Barrier only night = cleanse + tone (optional) + moisturizer + occlusive. No PDRN, no actives.

Why a rest day? Skin repair happens during recovery. Back-to-back actives without a rest night is where most people overdo it.

The evening buffers (for sensitive skin)

If PDRN ever tingles more than a mild 10-second tingle:

- Buffer 1: PDRN after moisturizer instead of before (slows absorption)
- Buffer 2: mix 1 drop PDRN into your moisturizer in your palm
- Buffer 3: short-contact – apply, leave 5 min, then layer moisturizer over

If it still stings: your barrier isn't ready. Go back to Phase 1 Reset.

The do-not-mix rules (memorize these)

Never combine on the same night	Why
PDRN + exfoliating acid (glycolic, lactic, salicylic)	Acid opens + irritates; PDRN then floods an inflamed barrier
PDRN + retinol / retinal	Both drive cell turnover signals – too much at once
PDRN + high-dose vitamin C (L-ascorbic)	pH clash, irritation risk
PDRN + vitamin A and acid	Triple active – barrier meltdown
PDRN + physical scrubs / tools	Micro-tears + actives = redness
PDRN + clay mask	Stripping + active = reactive
PDRN immediately before SPF (AM)	Saves nothing; keep PDRN for PM

Same-night stacks that ARE fine:

- PDRN + hydrating toner/essence
- PDRN + hyaluronic acid
- PDRN + niacinamide (2-5%)
- PDRN + panthenol / centella / madecassoside
- PDRN + ceramide moisturizer
- PDRN + occlusive

The one active per night principle

If you use multiple actives, give each its own night:

- Monday – PDRN
- Tuesday – PDRN

- Wednesday – Barrier only
- Thursday – Retinol (if you use it)
- Friday – PDRN
- Saturday – Barrier only
- Sunday – Gentle acid (1– week max, only if barrier score 8+)

This is the single most effective change you can make. It removes the guesswork from “what broke me out.”

Time-block sheet

Time	Step	Product	Notes
7:00	Cleanse	Gentle non-foaming	20 sec, lukewarm
7:02	Tone	Hydrating	Damp skin
7:04	Moisturize	Ceramide barrier	Generous
7:08	Protect	SPF 30+	2-finger rule, dry skin
20:00	Cleanse	Gentle non-foaming	Remove SPF
20:02	Tone	Hydrating	Wet base layer
20:04	PDRN	Serum, 2–3 drops	Press in, don’t rub
20:06	Moisturize	Barrier	Seal it
20:08	Seal	Occlusive (optional)	Night only

Travel & minimal-routine version

When you can only carry three things:

1. Gentle cleanser (or micellar + rinse)
2. PDRN serum (multi-tasking hydrator + active)
3. Barrier cream (moisturizer + occlusive in one)

Add a stick SPF for the day. That’s a complete PDRN routine in a quart bag.

Track it

Every PDRN night, note it in the PDRN Log below. Two minutes, once, and in 8 weeks you’ll have data no influencer can give you.

PDRN Log

Date	Nights this week	Tingle 0–3	Redness 0–3	Glow 0–3	Notes
------	------------------	------------	-------------	----------	-------

Glow scale: 0 = dull/tired • 1 = normal • 2 = healthy sheen • 3 = “glass skin” day
